INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Welcome to our latest edition. At the time of writing this issue, Sajid Javid had resigned as Chancellor of the Exchequer with less than a month to go until Budget Day. His replacement, Rishi Sunak, will deliver the Budget on 11 March 2020. In our next issue, we'll look at the key Budget announcements and how they could affect your finances.

Some of the questions our clients almost always ask us are: 'Will I be able to retire when I want to? Will I run out of money? How can I guarantee the kind of retirement I want?' Worryingly, it's been well documented that many Britons aren't saving enough in their pension for their retirement. On page 08, figures published by HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC) in September 2019 show that the annual average contributions that every individual makes decreased in 2017/18 compared to 2016/17. We look at what you need to consider when saving for retirement.

The end of the 2019/20 tax year is fast approaching, and there are a number of valuable allowances and reliefs that will be lost if they are not used before the deadline. These opportunities include, but are not limited to, four important areas of tax planning that should be considered. On page 03, we've summarised these allowances and suggest that if appropriate to your particular situation, these areas should be reviewed before 5 April 2020.

Are you worried about leaving an inheritance to your loved ones and then having them pay tax on your legacy? No one likes to think about a time when they won't be here, but unfortunately the reality is that some people aren't prepared financially. Estates that pass on to a spouse, registered civil partner or charities are exempt from Inheritance Tax (IHT), even if the value of such estates is higher than the threshold limits. Estates that pass on to anyone else, including siblings, children and grandchildren, attract IHT. Turn to page 07.

2019/20 ISA ALLOWANCE - USE IT OR LOSE IT

Maximise your wealth creation - don't miss the deadline

THE VALUE OF INVESTMENTS MAY GO DOWN AS WELL AS UP, AND YOU MAY GET BACK LESS THAN YOU INVESTED.

TOP 4 TIPS FOR GOOD TAX PLANNING

WHAT SHOULD I CONSIDER BEFORE THE END OF THIS TAX YEAR?

These opportunities include, but are not limited to, four important areas of tax planning. We've summarised these allowances below and suggest that if appropriate to your particular situation, these areas should be reviewed before 5 April 2020.

1. TAKE YOUR ISA CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE MAX

The term 'ISA' stands for 'Individual Savings Account', which allows you to save tax-efficiently into a cash savings or investment account. With a Cash ISA or a Stocks & Shares ISA (or a combination of the two), you can save or invest up to £20,000 a year tax-efficiently. Your ISA allowance doesn't roll over into a subsequent tax year, so if you don't use it, you'll lose out forever.

If you are in a position to, it may make sense for you and your spouse to take advantage of each other's ISA allowance, particularly if one of you has more financial resources than the other. That way, you can save (in the case of Cash ISAs) or invest (in the case of Stocks & Shares ISAs) up to £40,000 tax-efficiently in the current tax year.

Also, 16 and 17-year-olds actually have two ISA allowances, as they're able to open a Junior ISA (once they have transferred their Child Trust Fund [CTF] to their Junior ISA and closed the CTF), which for 2019/20 has a limit of £4,368, as well as an adult Cash ISA. This means that you could put away up to £24,368 in your child's name tax-efficiently this tax year.

People aged 18-39 can open a Lifetime ISA, which entitles them to save up to £4,000 tax-efficiently a year until they're 50. The Government will top up the savings by 25%, up to a maximum of £1,000 a year.

Viewing your and your spouse's allowances as one will allow you to make the most of these tax advantages.

2. MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR PENSION TAX RELIEFS

Now is also the time to check you are taking full advantage of your pension tax reliefs and allowances. Normally, between you and your employer, you can contribute a maximum of £40,000 into your pension in a tax year (this is called your 'annual allowance'). If you earn less than £40,000 a year, tax relief will only be available on contributions with a gross equivalent equal to your income. However, for high earners with a taxable income of more than £150,000 per year, this is tapered downwards.

If you don't manage to make full use of your £40,000 pensions annual allowance this tax year, you can carry it forward for up to three years. For example, in the current 2019/20 tax year, you could carry forward unused contributions from 2016/17, 2017/18 and 2018/19, but the clock re-starts on 6 April this year.

3. TACKLE THE ONGOING ISSUE OF INHERITANCE TAX

Inheritance Tax (IHT) is usually payable at 40% on the portion of an estate that exceeds the £325,000 nil-rate band (NRB). Like the NRB, the unused percentage of the residence nil-rate band (RNRB) can be transferred between spouses and registered civil partners.

The RNRB is on top of the NRB, allowing individuals to pass on a qualifying residential property to their direct descendants. The maximum RNRB is £150,000 this year, and next year a couple will be able to combine their NRB and RNRB allowances to pass on property worth £1 million free of IHT. The RNRB is reduced by £1 for every £2 that the value of the net estate exceeds £2 million.

You can act at any time to help reduce potential IHT. However, gifting money is an area that is subject to an annual limit, which runs from the start of the tax year, and could be worth adding to your year-end-to-do list. Tax exemptions released through gifting should form a key part of IHT planning.

The annual allowance means you can gift up to £3,000 each year, exempt from IHT – so as a couple, you can make £6,000 worth of gifts. It can also be carried forward for one year.

You can give as many gifts of up to £250 to as many people as you like – that is, unless the person has already received a gift equating to the annual £3,000 exemption. Some types of gifts, such as wedding gifts or gifts to help with living costs, can also be given tax-free.

However, another factor to consider is the legislation around IHT, which could be subject to change in the near future. The Office of Tax Simplification is currently undertaking a significant review that could inform forthcoming policy decisions, so this year – before any changes come into force – reviewing your IHT plans, including gifting, should be a priority.

This is a complex area with qualifying conditions and requires expert estate planning advice.

4. PLAN TO REDUCE A CAPITAL GAINS TAX BILL

Capital Gains Tax (CGT) is a tax on the profits you make when you sell something such as an investment portfolio or a second property. Everyone has an annual allowance of £12,000 (in 2019/20) before CGT applies.

The allowance is for individuals, so couples have a joint allowance for 2019/20 of £24,000. If appropriate to your particular situation, it might be worth considering transferring an asset into your joint names so you both stay within your individual allowances.

Any gains in excess of the allowance are charged to CGT at either 18% (basic-rate taxpayers) or 28% (higher-rate taxpayers), depending on the individual's other total taxable income in the year the gain arises.

An important thing to remember with this aspect of taxation is that any losses you make on sales can be offset against your capital gains for CGT purposes.

Currently, CGT on the sale of a residential property, other than your main residence, is payable under self-assessment and will not be due until 31 January following the end of the tax year. This will change with effect from 6 April 2020, when payment of CGT from the sale of such a residential property will be required within 30 days of the date of sale/completion. ■

MAKE SURE YOU DON'T MISS THE DEADLINE TO CLAIM IMPORTANT ALLOWANCES AND RELIEFS

With less than two months remaining in the current 2019/20 tax year, UK-resident individuals should turn their attention to any pre-emptive steps which may be taken by 5 April 2020 in order to optimise their tax position. Personal tax planning can be complex. You should always seek professional advice when undertaking a review to ensure all changes are processed and managed effectively. To discuss your position, please contact us.

TIME TO GIVE YOUR PENSION POT A BOOST?

PLANNING AHEAD FOR THE FINANCIAL FUTURE YOU WANT

Planning for retirement can be both exciting and daunting. It's essential to structure your affairs to make sure you have enough money when you eventually retire. To give your pension pot a boost, one option to consider if your pension savings are more than your annual allowance is to take advantage of the 'carry forward' rules for unused annual allowances from previous years and still receive tax relief.

TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF CARRY FORWARD RULES, YOU MUST MAKE THE MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE CONTRIBUTION IN THE CURRENT TAX YEAR (£40,000 IN 2019/20). YOU CAN THEN CARRY FORWARD ANY UNUSED ANNUAL ALLOWANCES FROM THE THREE PREVIOUS TAX YEARS.

The carry forward rules were introduced from 6 April 2011 and allow your unused annual allowance to be carried forward from the three previous tax years. Where this can be very beneficial is for an individual who has received a large salary increase, whose profits have been good in a self-employed business, who has been made redundant or who is nearing retirement.

VERY USEFUL FOR HIGH EARNERS

Utilising carry forward can also be very useful for high earners who are affected by the tapered annual allowance, which was introduced in April 2016. The way the tapered annual allowance works is that anyone with an adjusted income of more than £150,000 per year has their annual allowance reduced by £1 for every £2 they earn over £150,000, up to a maximum reduction of £30,000.

To be able to carry forward unused annual allowance from a previous tax year, you must have been a member of a registered pension scheme at some point in that tax year (a 'member' includes active, deferred and pensioner members). This can apply even if no contributions were made during that year or if there was a nil pension input amount.

MAXIMUM ALLOWABLE CONTRIBUTION

To take advantage of carry forward rules, you must make the maximum allowable contribution in the current tax year (£40,000 in 2019/20). You can then carry forward any unused annual allowances from the three previous tax years.

The amount of annual allowance that you can carry forward will depend on how much of your annual allowance you used in the previous three tax years. When assessing how much of your annual allowance you used in previous tax years, you need to include the total value of the contributions you made to your pension, any contributions made by your employer, and the tax relief you received from HMRC.

Tax year	Annual allowance
2016/17	£40,000
2017/18	£40,000
2018/19	£40,000
2019/20	£40,000

AUTOMATICALLY CARRY FORWARD ANY UNUSED ANNUAL ALLOWANCE

Carry forward cannot be used for any year that an individual was not a member of a registered pension scheme. It's also worth noting that any contribution made using carry forward does not need to be made to the same registered pension scheme that an individual was a member of in the previous year.

It's possible to carry forward any unused annual allowance automatically. There's no requirement to make a claim to HMRC to carry forward any unused allowance, and there's no need for the details to be included on a self-assessment tax return if there's no annual allowance charge due.

From 6 April 2015, the Money Purchase Annual Allowance (MPAA) was introduced. This reduced the annual allowance in certain circumstances. An individual cannot utilise carry forward if they have triggered the MPAA (unless they have ongoing accrual in a defined benefit scheme). ■

PORTFOLIO DIVERSIFICATION

DON'T PUT ALL YOUR EGGS IN ONE BASKET

Portfolio diversification is the foundational concept of investing. It's a risk management strategy of combining a variety of assets to reduce the overall risk of an investment portfolio.

Traditional wisdom says: don't put all your eggs in one basket. By ensuring your portfolio is well diversified across different asset classes, geographies, styles and size, you spread your risk exposure. If something goes wrong with one security, it only accounts for a small proportion of your investments and therefore won't be too detrimental to your overall wealth.

LOWERING VOLATILITY

The ultimate aim of portfolio diversification is to lower the volatility of a portfolio because not all asset categories, industries or stocks move together. By holding a variety of non-correlated assets, you can reduce specific investment risk.

Diversification is also important because investing in markets can be volatile and unpredictable. In practical terms, diversification is holding investments which will react differently to the same market or economic event. It's also your best defence against a single investment failing or one asset class performing poorly.

SMOOTHING OUT RETURNS

When the economy is growing, stocks tend to outperform bonds. But when things slow down, bonds often perform better than stocks. By holding both stocks and bonds within your portfolio, you reduce the chances of your portfolio being subjected to corrections when markets swing one way or the other.

Diversification also safeguards you against adverse market cycles and reduces volatility. In other words, by owning a large number of investments in different industries and companies, industry and company-specific risk is minimised. This decreases the volatility of the portfolio because different assets should be rising and falling at different times, smoothing out the returns of the portfolio as a whole.

DIFFERENT ASSET CLASSES

To diversify well, you need to invest across different asset classes and within different options in an asset class. If most of your money is in one or two asset classes, it may be prudent to consider other asset classes. Then, within each asset class, make sure your money is invested across the different options available. The three simple ways to diversify your portfolio broadly are by investing across asset classes, within an asset class and internationally.

Setting the right asset allocation for your financial goals and personal specifications depends on a number of factors. These include your investment time horizon and what you are going to use the money for. If you want to grow the money, you will need to take on some risk; if you are looking to preserve it, you will need to limit risk.

TIME HORIZON AND GOALS

Diversification is also important regardless of your time horizon and goals. Any time you're investing in the stock market, you should aim for a diversified portfolio. As your goals or time frames change, the levers to shift should be determined by how aggressively that diversified portfolio is built. Investments allocated to a long-term goal can lean more heavily on stocks, for instance, than those geared towards near-term goals.

An easy way to determine if your portfolio is diversified is by looking at your current performance. Diversified investments won't move in the same direction at the same time. If some of your investments are up while others are down, you've got diversification. ■

MARKET VOLATILITY REQUIRES GREATER DIVERSIFICATION AND INVESTMENT EXPERTISE

Investment objectives can rarely be met by investing in a single asset class. A portfolio that actively invests across multiple asset classes has more sources of potential return and can better adapt to changing market conditions. One of the keys to successful investing is learning how to balance your comfort level with risk against your time horizon. To discuss your investment requirements, please contact us.

PRESERVING YOUR LEGACY

HOW TO KEEP YOUR WEALTH IN THE FAMILY

Are you worried about leaving an inheritance to your loved ones and then having them pay tax on your legacy? No one likes to think about a time when they won't be here, but unfortunately the reality is that some people aren't prepared financially.

Estates that pass on to a spouse, registered civil partner or charities are exempt from Inheritance Tax (IHT), even if the value of such estates is higher than the threshold limits. Estates that pass on to anyone else, including siblings, children and grandchildren, attract IHT.

DECIDING ON THE BEST WAY TO LEAVE YOUR ESTATE

If your estate is likely to suffer IHT, there are accessible solutions and strategies we can discuss with you to mitigate this tax. You may find the idea of discussing inheritance uncomfortable, but proper IHT planning could save your family hundreds of thousands of pounds. This is about deciding on the best way to leave your estate to those you love after you die, and to help ensure your loved ones are provided for.

When you die, the Government charges tax on your estate – and it could be a pretty significant amount. IHT is payable at 40% on assets within your estate that exceed the nil-rate band threshold (currently at £325,000) and is payable on assets that are passed on when you die. Nearly everyone has an estate, no matter how big or small it may be. This will include your property and business, cash and investments, cars, jewellery, art, and proceeds from life insurance policies not written in an appropriate trust.

TRANSFER TO A SURVIVING SPOUSE OR REGISTERED CIVIL PARTNER

An additional nil-rate band is available for individuals on their main residence if it is passed on to a direct descendant. Direct descendants include children (including stepchildren, adopted children or foster children) or grandchildren. This additional IHT-free residence nil-rate band is set at £150,000 in the 2019/20 tax year and will increase to £175,000 from 6 April 2020. As with the existing nil-rate band, any unused additional nil-rate band can be transferred to a surviving spouse or registered civil partner.

The residence nil-rate band is available on top of the existing IHT nil-rate band of £325,000, so that in 2020/21 an individual will potentially be able to leave £500,000 free of IHT. As is now the case with the standard nil-rate band, where the first of a married couple to die leaves their estate to their spouse, the residence nil-rate band can effectively be 'passed on' to the surviving spouse.

MORE TAX-EFFICIENT FOR IHT PURPOSES TO GIFT MONEY

While few of us enjoy talking about our eventual demise, not having a Will can result in assets passing to the wrong person or in a way that gives rise to a larger IHT bill. That's why it's equally important to keep any Will up to date. Tax rules and rates are always changing, and it is crucial to make the most of any new opportunities and to avoid any pitfalls. However, it can be more tax-efficient for IHT purposes to gift money while you are still alive.

TRANSFORMATIVE EFFECT ON BOTH YOUR AND YOUR FAMILY'S LIFE

Transferring wealth while you are alive can have a transformative effect on both your and your family's life. Gifting money to a younger relative to top up their pension and an Individual Savings Account can substantially boost their income when they eventually retire.

Each year, you can give away £3,000, and that gift will not be subject to IHT. You can also give £250 to any number of people each year. Parents can give £5,000 to each of their children as a wedding gift. Grandparents can give £2,500, and anyone else £1,000.

FURTHER TAX-FREE GIFTS

Gifts of any size to charities or political parties are also IHT-free. If a gift is regular, comes out of your income and does not affect your standard of living, any amount of money can be given away and ignored for IHT.

It is also possible to make further tax-free gifts (potentially exempt transfers), but you have to survive for seven years after making the gift to get the full benefit of it being outside your estate for IHT purposes.

TAKING A SIGNIFICANT AMOUNT OF WEALTH OUT OF YOUR ESTATE

If you pass away within seven years and the gifts are valued at more than the nil-rate band, taper relief will be applied. The tax reduces on a sliding scale if the gift was made between three and seven years earlier.

Many people think that IHT only concerns the very wealthy, but property prices are such that the value of your property alone can easily exceed the tax threshold. Don't forget, IHT can take a significant amount of wealth out of your estate, making a big difference to the amount your heirs receive when you are gone. ■

HOW CAN I BE SURE MY WEALTH WILL REACH THE RIGHT PEOPLE?

First and foremost, IHT planning will help ensure your family is provided for and your loved ones are taken care of. It also means you can choose where your estate goes so there will be no confusion about your wishes. Professional IHT planning can also help minimise the amount of tax paid, so you can leave more to your loved ones. To discuss your concerns, please contact us.

PLANNING FOR TOMORROW

WILL MY RETIREMENT INCOME BE ENOUGH TO LIVE ON COMFORTABLY?

The questions our clients almost always ask us are: ‘Will I be able to retire when I want to? Will I run out of money? How can I guarantee the kind of retirement I want?’

Worryingly, it’s been well documented that many Britons aren’t saving enough in their pension for their retirement. Figures published by HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC)^[1] in September 2019 show that the annual average contributions that every individual makes decreased in 2017/18 compared to 2016/17.

SAVING ENOUGH MONEY FOR RETIREMENT

It’s never too early to start planning for your future. When planning for retirement, the truth is that the earlier you start saving and investing, the better off you’ll be, thanks to the power of your money compounding over time. It’s like a snowball: the further up the mountain it rolls down from, the more snow it picks up, and the bigger the snowball is by the time it reaches the bottom. Put simply, this is what happens to your money.

However, given the difficulty of precisely timing market peaks and troughs, market downturns can have an impact on the value of your retirement pot which is directly dependent on the value of the investments your pension fund owns.

A pension is a long-term investment. The fund value may fluctuate and can go down. Your eventual income may depend upon the size of the fund at retirement, future interest rates and tax legislation.

There are steps that you can take to improve your pension prospects, no matter what your age.

We can help you determine which retirement income methods may be best for you based on your personal needs and goals. These are some basics you need to know.

STATE PENSION

The State Pension is a weekly payment from the Government that you can receive once you reach State Pension age. In order to qualify for the State Pension, you need to make National Insurance contributions. If you reached State Pension age before April 2016, you’ll be receiving the basic State Pension, plus any additional State Pension you may have built up. Those who hit State Pension age after April 2016 will receive the new single-tier State Pension.

Both the basic and single-tier State Pension are protected by something called the ‘triple-lock’ guarantee. This means that they rise each year by the greater of annual CPI inflation (announced in September every year), average earnings growth, or 2.5%.

From April 2019, the State Pension increased by average earnings growth, which came in highest at 2.6%. If you’re entitled to the full new single-tier State Pension, your weekly payments in the current tax year are £168.60 a week – for this, you’ll need to have 35 years of NI contributions.

The State Pension is unlikely to provide a substantial income in retirement. That’s where a private pension can make a big difference.

PENSION TAX RELIEF

The Government encourages you to save for your retirement by giving you tax relief on pension contributions. Tax relief has the effect of reducing your tax bill and/or increasing your pension fund. However, at the time of writing this article, the way pension tax relief works is reportedly under review by the Treasury.

You can receive tax relief on private pension contributions worth up to 100% of your annual earnings. Since the tax relief you receive on your pension contributions is paid at the highest rate of Income Tax you pay, the higher your rate of tax, the more you could receive.

The Welsh Government now has the power to set Income Tax rates and bands from 6 April 2019, but has opted to keep these the same as England and Northern Ireland for tax year 2019/20.

ENGLAND/WALES/NORTHERN IRELAND

- Basic-rate taxpayers receive 20% pension tax relief, for example, a contribution of £100 from your salary into your pension would cost you

£80, with the Government contributing the other £20 – the amount it would have taxed from £100 of your salary

- Higher-rate taxpayers can claim 40% pension tax relief, for example, a contribution of £100 costs you £60, with the Government adding £40
- Additional-rate taxpayers can claim 45% pension tax relief, for example, a contribution of £100 costs you £55, with the Government adding £45

SCOTLAND

- Starter-rate taxpayers pay 19% Income Tax but get 20% pension tax relief
- Basic-rate taxpayers pay 20% Income Tax and get 20% pension tax relief
- Intermediate-rate taxpayers pay 21% Income Tax and can claim 21% pension tax relief
- Higher-rate taxpayers pay 41% Income Tax and can claim 41% pension tax relief
- Top-rate taxpayers pay 46% Income Tax and can claim 46% pension tax relief

ANNUAL ALLOWANCE

Anyone earning less than £40,000 would only be able to obtain tax relief on a grossed up pension contribution equal to their gross income. Nobody actually pays tax on their pension contributions as such.

Contributions are made by people net of basic-rate tax, and the product provider grosses it up by adding a further £20 to every £80 that the individual pays. If this process results in the individual receiving more tax relief than they are entitled to, HMRC will claw it back further down the line.

Your annual allowance applies to all of your pensions if you have more than one. This includes the total amount paid into a defined contribution scheme in a tax year by you or anyone else (for example, your employer) and any increase in a defined benefit scheme in a tax year.

If you use all of your annual allowance for the current tax year, you might be able to carry over any annual allowance you did not use from the previous three tax years.

Your annual allowance will be lower if you flexibly access your pension. By accessing the

If you're concerned about saving enough money for retirement, you're not alone. Even if you began saving late or have yet to begin, it's important to know that you are not alone, and we can discuss with you steps you can take to increase your retirement savings.

taxable element of your pension, it triggers the 'money purchase annual allowance' (MPAA) rather than the tax-free cash pension commencement lump sum (PCLS). An individual could take their tax-free cash from a pension arrangement and not trigger the MPAA.

For example, this could include taking cash or a short-term annuity from a flexi-access drawdown fund or taking cash from a pension pot (uncrystallised funds pension lump sums).

The MPAA is £4,000 and is triggered by flexibly accessing benefits. If you have a high income, you'll have a reduced (tapered) annual allowance if both your 'threshold income' is over £110,000, or your 'adjusted income' is over £150,000.

If you go over your annual allowance, either you or your pension provider must pay the tax. HMRC does not tax anyone for going over their annual allowance in a tax year if they retired and took all their pension pots because of serious ill health or have died.

HMRC^[1] figures published in September 2019 show that during 2017/18, 26,550 taxpayers reported pension contributions exceeding their annual allowance through self-assessment. 2016/17 was the first year affected by the tapered annual allowance; the total value of contributions reported as exceeding the annual allowance was £812 million in 2017/18.

LIFETIME ALLOWANCE

You usually pay tax if your pension pots are worth more than the lifetime allowance. This is currently £1,055,000. You might be able to protect your pension pot from reductions to the lifetime allowance. If you're in more than one pension scheme, you must add up what you've used in all pension schemes you belong to.

A statement from your pension provider will tell you how much tax you owe if you go above your lifetime allowance, and your pension provider will deduct the tax before you start receiving your pension.

If you die before taking your pension, HMRC will bill the person who inherits your pension for the tax. The rate of tax you pay on pension savings above your lifetime allowance depends on how the money is paid to you - the rate is 55% if you receive it as a lump sum and 25% if you receive it in any other way (for example, through pension payments or cash withdrawals).

In April 2016, the lifetime allowance was reduced. You can apply to protect your lifetime allowance from this reduction. Tell your pension provider the type of protection and the protection reference number when you decide to take money from your pension pot. You can also inform HMRC in writing if you think you might have lost your protection.

You may also have a reduced lifetime allowance if you have the right to take your pension before the age of 50 under a pension scheme you joined before 2006.

In 2017/18, there were 4,550 counts of lifetime allowance excess charges paid. The total value of lifetime allowance charges paid by schemes in the tax year was £185 million - a 28.5% increase from £144 million in 2016/17 - according to HMRC^[1] figures published in September 2019. ■

DIVORCEES RISK LOSING OUT ON PENSIONS

DIVIDING THIS ASSET IS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO AVOID PENSION POVERTY

Divorce is an emotional and stressful period for those who have to go through it. However, it's important that people realise that a pension is a valuable asset when considering how they split their money.

This is particularly problematic given the average age of divorcees, and it is more likely that a woman will not have any sizeable pension of her own. Previously married couples are at risk of ignoring one of the most valuable assets in divorce settlements, the latest figures from the Family Law Courts show.

DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE

The figures show there were 118,408 petitions filed for dissolution of marriage in 2018, but only 14% contained some sort of pension settlement order. This is despite a recent trend in people getting divorced later in life. According to the Office for National Statistics, the median age of divorce for men and women has increased by ten years between 1987 and 2017^[1].

As people divorce later, they have less time to build a retirement income if they did not have a pension of their own, meaning dividing this asset is of vital importance to avoid pension poverty. This is a particular issue for women, as 45% of women aged 65 or over have no private pension wealth, separate figures from the ONS show.

When couples divorce, they have different options for how they divide assets between them, including pensions.

The primary methods used for pensions are:

- Offsetting, where the pension assets can be offset against other assets of the divorcing parties
- Pension sharing orders, where pension assets are divided at the time of divorce and there is a clean financial break

- Pension attachment orders, also known as 'pension earmarking', where the pension provider of one party pays an agreed amount direct to the former spouse when the pension rights come into payment. This does not represent a clean financial break between the couple and risks the loss of future income for the former spouse if the person with the pension rights dies before retiring or the former spouse remarries

PENSION ATTACHMENT ORDERS

Since 2015, the use of pension attachment orders has increased by 61%, while pension sharing orders have risen by 41%. However, while both types of pension order have increased in popularity, they still represent a relatively small percentage of total divorce cases.

In light of pension freedoms, people with existing pension attachment orders should consider reviewing their agreement and take financial and legal advice as the change in rules brought about by pension freedoms may mean that their attachment order will not provide what was intended. ■

A FAIR SETTLEMENT FOR ALL PARTIES INVOLVED

Divorcees need to make sure they are receiving professional legal and financial advice before, during and after any divorce case to ensure any settlement is fair for all parties involved. It should not be acceptable for pensions to be ignored, since whilst they might not have an immediate impact, they will do so later in someone's life. Please contact us for more information.

RETIREMENT OPTIONS

£19M RELEASED EACH DAY SINCE PENSION FREEDOMS LAUNCH

In his 2015 Spring Budget, then-chancellor George Osborne introduced sweeping changes to the way that pensions are taxed. The new pension freedom rules have led to the over-55s being faced with a variety of different choices when taking and investing their nest eggs.

Prior to April 2015, when most people with a defined contribution pension reached retirement age, the only option available was to buy an annuity, which involved using pension savings to purchase a guaranteed income for life.

PEOPLE RETIRING EACH YEAR

Roll on five years, it now means anyone aged 55 and over can take the entire amount of their defined contribution pension scheme as a lump sum, paying no tax on the first 25%, with the remaining taxed as if it were a salary at their Income Tax rate.

Before this, tax restrictions ensured that many of the people retiring each year were required to purchase an annuity – a product provided by insurers which turns a pension pot into a secure retirement income for life. The problem with some annuities is that they have become poor value, particularly for savers who bought the wrong kind.

PEAK PENSION FREEDOMS

Official figures^[1] published show that £32.97 billion of taxable payments have been taken from pensions since freedom and choice were introduced. This equates to an average of £18.75 million being flexibly withdrawn every day over the past 1,760 days since pension freedoms were introduced.

In the coming decade, a record nine million people are set to enter the arena of the pension freedoms at age 55^[2]. This is more than is expected to be seen in any decade that follows, with the 2020s likely to see peak pension freedoms.

INCREASED RESPONSIBILITY

With the popularity of pension freedoms continuing to grow and savers being entrusted with increased individual responsibility, it is worrying that 94% of adults are flying solo, not seeking any financial advice each year.^[3]

The Money and Pensions Service (MaPS) has launched its strategy with a vision of 'everyone making the most of their money and pensions'^[4].

TAKE YOUR TIME AND SEEK ADVICE

If you are considering your pension freedom options, the future has 'got a lot more interesting'. Remember: take your time and seek professional financial advice. The pension freedoms are available from age 55, but there is no need to act at age 55. And your time in retirement may be longer than ever before.

PENSION FREEDOM OPTIONS

There are a number of different options when you are deciding how to take your defined contribution pension pot.

Leave your whole pot untouched

You don't have to start taking money from your pension pot when you reach your 'selected retirement age'. You can leave your money invested in your pot until you need it.

Guaranteed income (annuity)

You use your pot to purchase an insurance policy that guarantees you an income for the rest of your life – no matter how long you live.

Adjustable income

Your pot is invested to give you a regular income. You decide how much to take out and when, and how long you want it to last.

Take cash lump sums

You can take smaller sums of money from your pot until you run out. Your 25% tax-free amount isn't paid in one lump sum – you get it over time.

Take your entire pot in one go

You can cash in your entire pot – 25% is tax-free, the rest is taxable.

Combine your options

You can also combine different options. However, to do this, you would usually need a bigger pot.

BE AWARE OF THE SCAMMERS

Make sure you don't fall victim to scammers. Your pension is likely to represent the biggest single source of your private wealth, so the attraction for scammers is obvious. Since January 2019, it has been illegal to make these cold calls. See the Financial Conduct Authority's ScamSmart website for more advice.

DON'T OVERLOOK THE TAX

Think about the matter of tax. How will this impact on your particular situation? The way in which you access your pension savings can have significant implications on how much tax you may need to pay and on the income in your retirement.

PROFESSIONAL FINANCIAL ADVICE

Finally, don't forget the importance of obtaining professional financial advice. You may have been saving for 30 years, so take more than 30 minutes when considering your options. Let us provide you with the professional advice to ensure that you end up with the best options for your particular situation. ■

A LONG LIFE NEEDS A SMART PLAN

The way you take your money for retirement will have a big impact on how long it will last – and how much tax you pay. To discuss your options or to find out more, contact us to arrange a meeting.

2019/20 ISA ALLOWANCE – USE IT OR LOSE IT

MAXIMISE YOUR WEALTH CREATION – DON'T MISS THE DEADLINE

Whatever you're putting money aside for, there's likely to be a role for Individual Saving Accounts, or 'ISAs'. An ISA is a way of holding savings or investments without paying personal tax on interest received or on the growth of your investment.

Whether you're a novice or an experienced saver, we can help you get the most from your 2019/20 ISA allowance.

TAX YEAR DEADLINE IS 5 APRIL 2020

Each year, you have an ISA allowance which, if fully utilised, can have a big impact over time. ISA allowances can't be rolled over to the next tax year. If you don't use your 2019/20 ISA allowance by 5 April 2020, it'll be gone for good. For the 2019/20 tax year, the ISA allowance is £20,000.

You can split the ISA allowance across different types of ISA, but you can only add money to one ISA of each type in a tax year.

WHAT ARE YOUR ISA OPTIONS?

Cash ISA – a type of savings account, where any interest received is tax-free.

Stocks & Shares ISA – a 'wrapper' for investments, where any investment growth is tax-efficient.

Innovative Finance ISA – a 'wrapper' specifically for peer-to-peer investments, where any interest received is tax-efficient. Peer-to-peer investments are high risk arrangements. You could lose some or all of your capital.

Help to Buy ISA – a regular savings Cash ISA, where the Government will add up to £3,000 if you have contributed £12,000 yourself (these closed to new savers on 30 November 2019).

Lifetime ISA – a type of Cash or Stocks & Shares ISA available to the under 40s since 6 April 2017, designed to help people save for their first home or their retirement. Any interest received or investment growth is tax-efficient. Savings of up to £4,000 per year will be matched by a contribution of up to £1,000 from the Government; any savings above that amount will not receive any additional bonus. You can continue paying into a Lifetime ISA until you are 50.

Junior ISA – a type of Cash ISA where parents can save up to £4,368 per year tax-efficiently for the child. The child gains access to the money at the age of 16, and the account becomes a standard cash ISA at the age of 18.

Inheritance ISA – a Cash ISA specifically for widows, widowers or bereaved civil partners, where the deceased's ISA can be transferred across into the surviving partner's name, in addition to their own annual allowance. ■

WHAT ARE MY ISA OPTIONS?

There are different types of ISA investment options available to investors. What you choose is likely to depend on a number of factors such as investment time horizon or attitude to risk. To discuss the right options for you and your family, speak to us for more information.

INFORMATION IS BASED ON OUR CURRENT UNDERSTANDING OF TAXATION LEGISLATION AND REGULATIONS. ANY LEVELS AND BASES OF, AND RELIEFS FROM, TAXATION ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE.

THE TAX BENEFITS RELATING TO ISA INVESTMENTS MAY NOT BE MAINTAINED.

THE VALUE OF INVESTMENTS AND INCOME FROM THEM MAY GO DOWN. YOU MAY NOT GET BACK THE ORIGINAL AMOUNT INVESTED.
